It's a wonderful life

Returns through the pouring rain and cold of night from another dead end job.
Woman lying in his bed as he shakes his head was his wife long ago.
Why did he make this change and ruin it all and let his life go.

He only wants to find a breakthrough,
He only wants to find a breakthrough,
He only wants to find a breakthrough,
How can he ever find a breakthrough?

Kids are up, they never sleep, it's late at night but they're wired to the virtual world.
They're locked to the game they're in, don't notice as he walks through the door.
Been several years since as he spoke to them like a father to a son.

He only wants to find a breakthrough,
He only wants to find a breakthrough,
He only wants to find a breakthrough,
How can he ever find a breakthrough?

Noises from the house next door as he rests his head another party going on.
Moves from their roof's to under a streetlight, his nightmares just begun.
He bangs his head he screams out loud but everything, everything feels wrong.

He only wants to find a breakthrough,
He only wants to find a breakthrough,
He only wants to find a breakthrough,
How can he ever find a breakthrough?

He only wants to find a breakthrough,
He only wants to find a breakthrough,
He only wants to find a breakthrough,
How can he ever find a breakthrough?
